School subjects you like & jobs they can lead to

A good place to start exploring career pathways is to think about the school subjects you enjoy

USING THE BULLSEYE CHARTS

- * Think about a school subject you enjoy – and check out the relevant bullseye chart. There are 30 subjects to choose from
- * The four different circles of the bullseye represent the different levels of training you have to undertake to get that job
 - The first level is finishing Year 10, Certificate I or II or an Australian Apprenticeship, going up to the last level which is a Bachelor Degree or higher qualification (usually at university)
- * Have a look at the different jobs that are related to that subject
- * Highlight a few jobs you are interested in and look them up on jobguide.deewr.gov.au or myfuture.edu.au
 - Job Guide helps you explore career options and make subject choices. It has information about a wide range of occupations and their education and training pathways, including Australian Apprenticeships
 - Job Guide also includes useful information on the job search process and provides details of government assistance and where to go for further information
 - myfuture.edu.au is Australia's national online career information and exploration service. Go to the My Guide section and create your own personal action plan to help you reach your career goals
 - Search for "Bullseye" on myfuture.edu.au and find interactive bullseye charts with hyperlinks to corresponding occupation profiles. The profiles have information such as duties and tasks, related courses, earnings, vacancies and more

NEXT STEPS

- * Discuss your ideas with your friends, parents, teachers and career adviser
- * Find out about opportunities at school – ask about work experience, Structured Workplace Learning (SWL) or Australian School-based Apprenticeships
- * Look into what your local education and training providers have to offer
- * Check out career expos or open days in your area
